Speaking Disasters

Lessons Learned While Dying on the Platform

It is unfortunate when a speaker makes a mistake but it is tragic when we do not learn from the occasion and blunder again. Dan shares stories of speaking professionally; some events happened to him and some to other speakers. Each is a lesson learned. Some events will encourage you to perform the same way but others will warn you not to go there.

The most discouraging parts of professional speaking are the mistakes.
You do not have to make them.

This program is about you and what you do. Learn so you will not embarrass yourself in front of your audience. After each story, he encourages questions and contributions from the audience. Fascinating and fun.

Dan Poynter is an author of more than 120 books, has been a publisher since 1969 and is a Certified Speaking Professional (CSP). His seminars have been featured on CNN, his books have been pictured in The Wall Street Journal and his story has been told in US News & World Report.
